

JOB AID: PROVIDER'S ROLE IN LINKING TO COMMUNITY RESOURCES

Medical providers who see children who have experienced sexual violence and exploitation must be prepared to engage appropriate health and community-based services in an effort to give children the best-possible chance at recovery and reintegration, as well as to provide follow-up support for caregivers/families. The illustration below identifies community-based linkages the provider should connect the child or adolescent and caregiver/family member to, and explains the rationale behind each linkage.

Communication and referral between health care and community resources is depicted in the illustration here.

*This may also be appropriate for facility managers/directors.
